

---

crossman airsoft Airsoft Guns FS:

Posted by David Champagne - 2008/09/14 04:48

---

I am currently selling some airsoft guns that I am finding I don't use so much anymore. (I have others that do exactly what I want them to, so these are not used much) Firstly I wanted to say: These are *NOT* toys. They shoot projectiles (6mm plastic bb's) at over 300 feet per second. They WILL take out an eye, and can cause bodily harm. Secondly, I will absolutely not sell these to anyone below the age of 18. Not only is it illegal, but I won't be held responsible for giving something to minors that shouldn't have them. With the legal crap out of the way: I have 2 fully automatic airsoft rifles that I'm selling. For those of you who are really into airsoft, these aren't going to be of much interest to you. It's not chinasoft, and it's not walmart's clearsoft, but it's certainly no ICS, TM or CA. This would be great to start with someone who's new to Airsoft or would like to do some target practice, etc. They're fun to play with, and have been very reliable to me. http://i63.photobucket.com/albums/h136/enigmahack/IMG\_0145.jpg - Prowler + Charger http://i63.photobucket.com/albums/h136/enigmahack/IMG\_0144.jpg - Prowler + Charger left This is the fully auto Crossman Prowler. It shoots at around 325 FPS with .12g bb's. It's way more accurate with the .20s that I'll be including 500 of with a purchase of the gun. It also shoots between 3-4 rounds/second so not super fast, but fast enough for the most part. It's been in a couple of local private games, nothing fantastic. It DOES have a little bit of damage, but nothing that is at all performance impacting of the weapon.

http://i63.photobucket.com/albums/h136/enigmahack/IMG\_0143.jpg - Prowler damage I took a shot from an airsoft sniper rifle to the front of the hopper. The thing on the top isn't an optic, it actually holds around 600 rounds and is gravity fed. The second one that I'm selling is a shorter version of the M4 Carbine.

http://i63.photobucket.com/albums/h136/enigmahack/IMG\_0139.jpg - M4 + Charger

http://i63.photobucket.com/albums/h136/enigmahack/IMG\_0140.jpg - M4 down the line

http://i63.photobucket.com/albums/h136/enigmahack/IMG\_0141.jpg - M4 open clip

http://i63.photobucket.com/albums/h136/enigmahack/IMG\_0138.jpg - M4 down the sight The M4 shoots at roughly 340 FPS with .12g bb's. It's also more accurate with the .20's, but this one comes with a 100 round speedloader. The clip holds around 50 rounds and is auto-feeding. I don't have any extra clips which is why I'm including the speedloader itself. This one shoots between 10-14 rounds/second so much faster than the Prowler, and shoots a little faster too. The front handle is completely removable, and so is the optic on the top. The top optic also has a red-dot but the battery's dead unfortunately. (Worked just fine when it did use the battery, though I didn't tend to use it much)

This one is decent overall, and is one of my favorite ones that I've used. It's fast, it works and the battery keeps charge for quite a long time. (Also comes with charger) Both weapons have single shot and fully auto mode, and both have been treated lightly as well. Again, they weren't my primaries so I didn't tend to use them very much - both are still in fantastic condition. If you're interested, I'm currently taking offers for either or both together. Feel free to e-mail me at: enigmah...@hotmail.com or dave.champag...@gmail.com and I'll get back to you as soon as I can with a response on the offer. Thanks for your time!

---

crossman airsoft Airsoft Guns FS:

Posted by Matty D - 2008/09/14 04:48

---

thanks for the prowler dave!

---

---

crossman airsoft Airsoft Guns FS:

Posted by Matty D - 2008/09/14 04:48

---

BOTH SOLD TO ME =D

---